Re: Proposal to develop a reassigned number database, CG Docket No. 17-59

Dear Ms. Dortch:

On Tuesday, September 19, 2017, several meetings were conducted between advocates of national consumer groups and various people at the Federal Communications Commission (FCC). The attendees at each meeting were as follows:

1. I, along with George Slover of Consumers Union and Remington Gregg of Public Citizen, met with Commissioner Rosenworcel and her counsel, Travis Litman.
2. I, along George Slover of Consumers Union, Remington Gregg of Public Citizen, Christine Hines of the National Association of Consumer Advocates, and Linda Sherry of Consumer Action, met with Nicholas Degani, Acting General Counsel of the FCC.
3. I, along with Remington Gregg of Public Citizen, Christine Hines of the National Association of Consumer Advocates, Linda Sherry of Consumer Action, Susan Grant of Consumer Federation of America (who attended by phone), and Maureen Mahoney of Consumers Union (who attended by phone), met with Mark Stone, Kurt Schroeder, Josh Zeldis, and Micah Caldwell, all of the Consumer and Governmental Affairs Bureau of the FCC.

The subject of all the meetings was the FCC's Notice of Inquiry on developing a database for reassigned numbers. We discussed the issues covered in our comments, filed with the Commission on August 28, 2017.
